

CONTRADICTION

by Joan Riordan

It's not good
for the driver
who has someplace to be or
for the critters nearby
in the sewer,
brook or tree. But
the gasoline leaking
from an unknown vehicle
leaves a mural
of swirling colour
on my street –
a roiling ocean
sunset during a storm.
A masterpiece.

