

SKY IS WEARING RED TONIGHT

by Coral Rumble

Sky is wearing red tonight –
really making an entrance.
Trees are over shadowed, stand with branches lowered
as they mingle with forest tracks, blend bark with bark, stare at their roots.

The grass, hedges and rocky outcrops don't compete, because Sky is wearing red tonight,
and even River can only bathe in reflected glory,
as Sky dances a promise with flamenco style.

